DOYLE TELLS HIS VIEWS OF HEAVEN

New York, April 21—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle in his second lecture at Carnegie Hall, made the same impression he created in his first attempt to prove the existence of life after death and the possibility of communicating with the dead. He told his audience his idea of heaven. He was talking on the "religious side of the revelation."

Spiritualism, he believes, is not subversive of religion. On the contrary, it is the central prop of the structure, it proves the idea of immortality and having done that, will in time unite the various churches.

Sir Arthur's conception of heaven is interesting. A kindhearted gentleman who leaves this world immediately finds himself surrounded by flocks of friend on the "other side." They swarm about him like homing doves and he is happy and at peace.

Far different is the reception awaiting the sinister, unrepentant man. The cold, self-absorbed heartless man. No kind spirits are on hand to greet his advent into the land beyond the grave.

He is left to himself, desolate and alone, to wander and ponder over his mistakes on this earth and finally when by this process he has been chastened, he is admitted gradually to a higher sphere where he slowly attains happiness.

After leaving this earth, the spirit sleeps for three days, Sir Arthur explained. That is necessary to prevent any shock to the mind that might be sustained by too sudden a transition.

Sir Arthur was in communication with a spirit he said, who was telling of the glories of the "land beyond." Sir Arthur asked him if Christ had punished him for his sins and here's the message that came back:
"God is far too good and far too kind to worry people after all they have been through on earth."

No matter how old you are when the soul parts company with the body, Sir Arthur says you renew your youth on reaching the farther shore. Men become as they were at 30 and women go back somewhere near 20.

There are mansions, colonies, shops, places of amusement in the world beyond, says Doyle. Horses, dogs, all sorts of pet that people have loved in this world they will find waiting for them in the next.

Husbands and wives will be reunited, he says, and in case where husbands and wives have not been as happy together here as they might have been, they will be separated in the life beyond.

"If not," added Sir Arthur, "perhaps it might not be heaven for them."

No Old Women Nowadays
Modern dress, hair, dressers, facial experts and cosmetics all combine to keep women of all ages young and attractive in appearance. Not until the telltale wrinkles become so deep, the figure stoops, or some ailment or weakness develops to drag a woman down, does she really look her age.

Every woman owes it to herself and her family to keep herself young in appearance and happy. When headaches, back ache or "the blues" develop or when a woman reaches the trying age from forty-five to fifty Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be depended upon to keep her in health as it has so many other women whose letters we are continually publishing in this paper. It

THE time to watch the health of the most carefully is when she is entering young womanhood. Much depends upon the proper functioning of the organs of elimination. Let no false modesty interfere with it. If you detect the slightest tendency to constipation, by signs of biliousness, headache or restlessness check it with a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

WOLVES ADD TO TERRORS IN RUSSIA

(By Associated Press)

London, Apr. 21—Advices received here from the American Near East Relief organization at Tiflis depict terrible conditions in the Caucasus, where starvation, overcrowding in the towns, severe weather and attacks by wolves are causing great distress.

The central government is making efforts to secure food supplies from Persia and Turkestan and several small shipments have arrived from Persia, but the difficulty is to find medium of exchange which the Persians will accept.

Migrations of starving peasants from the villages owing to the exhaustion of food, stocks are causing acute embarrassment in the towns. Fifteen hundred of them have arrived at Alexandropol, where the Near East Relief organization is already feeding 5,000 refugees and 20,000 orphans.

Severe temperature and heavy snowfall are threatening to delay the spring farming. The snow is now six to nine feet deep in the eastern districts and the villagers are terrified by incursions of wolves. Two soldiers on outpost duty near Darschichak were eaten by wolves after a desperate fight. Near Alexandropol five peasants lost their lives when a band of wolves attacked their village.

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Richmond readers? After you have read the following, quietly answer the question:

Geo. O. Parker, carpenter 339 Moberly Ave., Richmond, says: "I had attacks of kidney complaint that have given me a lot of trouble with sore muscles and back. They came on when my kidneys were out of order. I had dull pains across the small of my back just over my kidneys. I was so lame across my hips that when I bent over I could hardly straighten up and the muscles felt as though they were tied in knots. The lameness in my back was worse in the morning and it bothered me when I stooped to put on my shoes. The change in the weather caused my kidneys to act irregularly. I took Doan's Kidney Pills and I am glad to say they have always relieved me right away." 60c at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. ap 21-28 ma
